THESE ADS WATCH YOU

New technology tailors ads to fit the people looking at them

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE Watch an advertisement on a video screen in a mall, health club or grocery store and there's a slim—but growing—chance the ad is watching you too.

Small cameras can now be embedded in the screen or hidden around it, tracking who looks at the screen and for how long. The makers of the tracking systems say the software can determine the viewer's gender, approximate age range and, in some cases, ethnicity—and can change the ads accordingly.

That could mean razor ads for men, cosmetics ads for women and video game ads for teens.

And even if the ads don't shift based on which people are watching, the technology's ability to determine the viewers' demographics is golden for advertisers who want to know how effectively they're reaching their target audience.

While the technology remains in limited use, advertising industry analysts say it is finally beginning to live up to its promise. The manufacturers say their systems can accurately determine gender 85 to 90 percent of the time, while accuracy for the other measures continues to be refined.

The concept is reminiscent of the science-fiction

INVASION OF PRIVACY?

Because face tracking might feel reminiscent of Big Brother, manufacturers are racing to offer reassurances. When the systems capture an image of who's watching the screen, a computer instantly analyzes it. The systems' manufacturers insist, however, that nothing is ever stored and no identifying information is ever associated with the pictures.

movie "Minority Report," in which Tom Cruise's character enters a mall and finds that retinal scanners identify him and prompt personalized ads that greet him by name.

But this technology doesn't go nearly that far. It doesn't identify people individually—it simply categorizes them by outward appearances.

So a video screen might show a motorcycle ad for a group of men, but switch to a minivan ad when women and children join them, said Vicki Rabenou, chief measurement officer of Tampa-based TruMedia Technologies Inc., one of the leaders in developing the technology.

Because the tracking industry is still in its infancy, there isn't yet consensus on how to refer to the technology. Some call it face reading, face counting, gaze tracking or, more generally, face-based audience measurement.

Whatever it's called, advertisers are finally ready to try it, said advertising consultant Jack Sullivan, a senior vice president of Starcom USA in Chicago.

"I think you're going to see a lot of movement toward it by the end of this year in the top 10 markets," he said.

The more the marrier

Taylor

The Rev. Ed Taylor has been marrying tourists in the Smoky Mountains for more than three decades. Now, he's the one saying "I do"—to retirement.

Taylor, 77, estimates he's performed about 85,000 marriages in Gatlinburg, Tenn.

In Gatlinburg, there is no waiting period or mandatory blood test to get married. Just like Las Vegas, couples have flocked to the town of 4,900 to get married and stayed for their honeymoon.

According to the Gatlinburg Chamber of Commerce, 600,000 people come to the Great Smoky Mountains each year to get married or attend a wedding.

"I won't know until I get to heaven how many stayed together," said Taylor, an ordained Baptist minister who has performed weddings for Billy Ray Cyrus and Patty Loveless, among many, many others. "But we laid the groundwork for them." AP

Florida treasure hunters strike gold again

Associated Press

Florida deep-sea explorers who found $500 million in sunken treasure two years ago say they have discovered another prized shipwreck: A legendary British man-of-war that sank in the English Channel 264 years ago.

Odyssey Marine Exploration hasn't found any gold this time, but it's looking for an even bigger jackpot. The company's research indicates the HMS Victory was carrying 4 tons of gold coins that could be worth considerably more than the treasure that Odyssey raised from a sunken Spanish galleon in 2007, co-founder Greg Stemm said ahead of a news conference set for Monday in London.

So far, Odyssey has recovered two brass cannons from the wreck of the Victory and continues to examine and map the debris field, which lies about 330 feet beneath the surface, Stemm said. The company said it is negotiating with the British government over collaborating on the project.

"This is a big one, just because of the history," Stemm said. "Very rarely do you solve an age-old mystery like this." Odyssey said the 31 brass cannons and other evidence on the wreck allowed definitive identification of the HMS Victory, a 175-foot sailing ship that was separated from its fleet during a storm and sank in the English Channel on Oct. 4, 1744, with at least 900 men aboard. The ship was the largest and, with 110 brass cannons, the most heavily armed vessel of its day. It was the inspiration for the HMS Victory famously commanded by Adm. Horatio Nelson decades later.

Nick weighs in on Jessica 'news'

It's the talk of the celebrity world: Jessica Simpson's body.

The story came up even in Tampa, where stars were gathered for Super Bowl parties. Nick Lachey and a slew of celebs attended the Club 009 tailgate Super Bowl party at an airport hangar in Tampa co-hosted by PrimeSport and DeBartolo Sports and Entertainment.

Lachey weighed in on the media's recent criticism over his ex-wife Simpson's weight gain.

"I think it is ridiculous people are asking about it and talking about it," Lachey told me. "I don't talk to her, but I wish her the best."

His brother Drew Lachey, football legend Jerry Rice, Jesse Palmer and Dave Annable and Matthew Rhys from "Brothers and Sisters" also attended the pregame bash.

More movies coming to Chicago?

Harry Connick Jr. is the latest celeb to have come through Chicago for a new film—and more could be on the way.

The Illinois Film Office hosted a screening of "New in Town," which stars Connick and Renee Zellweger, Wednesday night at the AMC Loews 600 North Michigan.

Before the romantic comedy began, Connick talked about the film and what it was like working alongside Zellweger to a packed theater of mostly females. "She is just bright, intelligent, funny and passionate," he said of his co-star.

Connick also talked about his love for the Windy City. "I am honored to be here," Connick said. "I love to come and play here." Connick filmed the flick in cold Winnipeg. "The temperature got to 50 below so ... it's real snow!" Connick said.

Film Office spokeswoman Betsy Steinberg also spoke at the event and said that there will be more movies filming here. "So look out for more trailers and trucks and hopefully celebrities in Chicago," she said.

Sure enough, Vince Vaughn shot scenes on Saturday for his flick "Couples Retreat" at O'Hare.

Super pregame

Speaking of Tampa, Michael Jordan headed there last week to take in pre-Super Bowl parties and festivities. Jordan dropped a chunk of cash playing blackjack at the Hard Rock Tampa on Tuesday and Wednesday.

I'm told the Bulls legend was not pleased that someone who witnessed him playing apparently called into a local radio show to blab about it.

Jordan also reportedly took part in a charity auction hosted by New York Yankees star Derek Jeter, according to the New York Post.

QUINN TAKES OVER

New governor suggests social get-togethers of potential political rivals

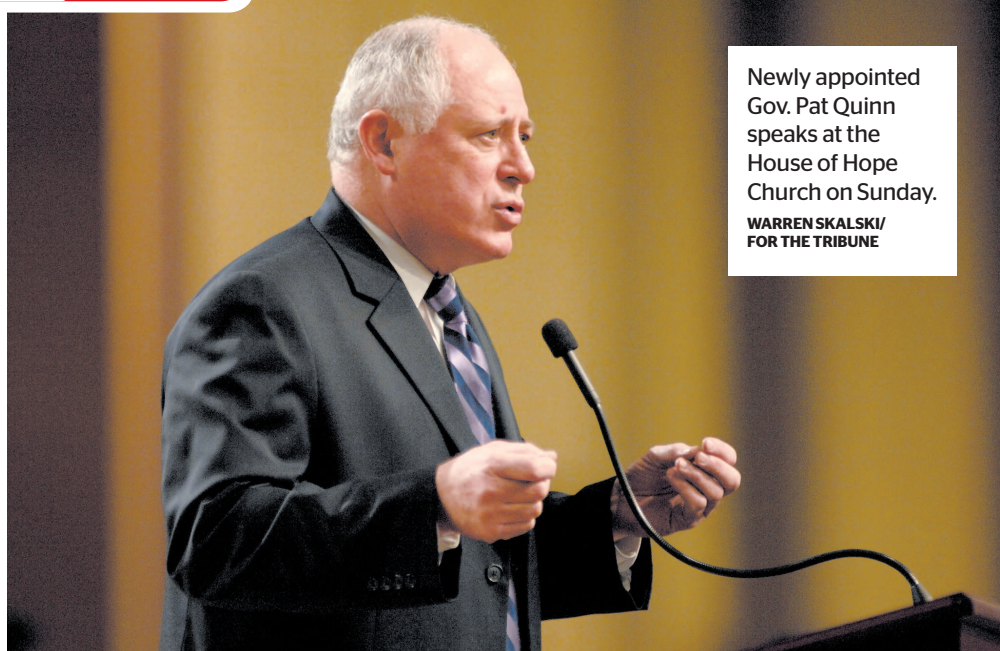

Chicago Tribune

After convening the first meeting among Illinois' statewide elected officials since shortly after his disgraced predecessor took office in 2003, a convivial Gov. Pat Quinn suggested they revive an old practice of having a dinner together with their spouses.

"We're going to have that very soon, as soon as we can organize our schedules," Quinn said after the 40-minute gathering of the group known as "the constitutionals" in the 16th floor governor's office formerly occupied by Rod Blagojevich at the James R. Thompson center.

"I think having that kind of social contact as well as policy opportunities from time to time — we all learn from that," Quinn said.

But as state officials try to repair the damage left behind by Blagojevich's tenure, the cheery Quinn's plans for dinner get-togethers could lead to battles over who gets to carve as their gatherings devolve into a meeting of potential political rivals.

Contenders for the Feb. 2, 2010, Democratic primary for governor will begin circulating their candidacy petitions in a scant seven months if the current election date stands. Political one-upsmanship is inevitable among Atty. Gen. Lisa Madigan, Comptroller Dan Hynes, Treasurer Alexi Giannoulas and Quinn, an unelected governor trying to build a record in his new office.

"That will be a challenge," said Senate Republican leader Christine Radogno of Lemont. "I think having Pat Quinn as governor is not what many people expected."

Quinn has already indicated the state needs to quickly approve a public works construction program, stalled during Blagojevich's time in office because of the distrustful attitude of lawmakers, which would require revenue such as new or increased taxes to pay for construction bonds.

But Quinn also is aware of the political damage a large general tax increase could have on his own bid for a full term as governor.

On Sunday, Quinn visited Salem Baptist Church, where state Sen. James Meeks is the pastor. Meeks had several battles with Blagojevich over increasing education funding for city schools.

Quinn credited Meeks with pushing education funding reform but offered no specific proposals. "We're going to work very hard to make sure that every person gets the education they need for the fullest development," the new governor said.

6 from Chicago killed in plane crash

Chicago Tribune

Six people from the Chicago area, including four pilots who were members of a local aviation club, were killed when their light plane crashed Friday in West Virginia, the club president confirmed Sunday.

The plane crashed Friday in a mountainous, wooded area near an airport in Kenova, W. Va., according to National Transportation Safety Board spokesman Peter Knudson.

"The weather was heavy snow at the time," Knudson said.

Although West Virginia authorities had still not officially identified the victims by Sunday, dozens of friends and family members gathered at the American Polish Aero Club to reminisce about the club members they say were aboard the twin-engine Piper PA-34.

Earlier Sunday, about 1,000 mourners gathered at St. Constance Catholic Church in Chicago for a memorial service for the victims, according to the pastor.

American Polish Aero Club President Chester Wojnicki identified the members killed as Kazimierz Adamski, Wieslaw Dobrzanski, Ireneusz Michalowski and Stanislaw Matras. Wojnicki did not know their ages.

Also aboard the plane were Monika Niemiec, 26, a reporter for a Polish radio station based in Chicago, and her father, Stanley Niemiec, who was along for the ride, Wojnicki said.

The group left from Lake in the Hills and was headed first to Charlotte and then to Clearwater, Fla., to look at two planes for sale, Wojnicki said.

The crash happened en route to Charlotte, Wojnicki said. It remains unclear who was piloting, he added.

The group was looking to buy a plane to pull glider planes, he said. Gliders need a plane with an engine to get them in the air to be released, he said. The club, which has about 60 members, flies both regular planes, and in the warmer months, gliders.

The NTSB is investigating reports that the aircraft was low on fuel and having difficulty locating the airport, which is about 13 miles west of Huntington.

"Visibility was low, about half a mile," Wojnicki said.

"He declared an emergency because he was low on fuel."

Freedom Museum moving out

Three years after it was opened, the McCormick Freedom Museum is closing its doors in Tribune Tower, opting instead to take its exhibits on the road by using mobile displays. The McCormick Foundation, the charitable trust that owns and operates the 10,000-square-foot museum, said Friday that the doors will close March 1. The museum's exhibit hardware and other components will move to Cantigny Park in Wheaton.

Man charged with murder

A Chicago man who allegedly followed a 55-year-old man home from an Indiana casino, and then shot and killed him in an attempted robbery, has been charged with robbery and murder, police said Sunday. Prosecutors said Arthur M. Grady, 30, of the 6300 block of South Champlain Avenue, allegedly followed the man home and confronted him outside his home in the 8100 block of South Eberhart Avenue.

Man stabbed to death

Chicago police detectives were talking to several witnesses regarding the stabbing death of a 30-year-old man on the South Side, police said Sunday. Morris Wilson, of the 500 block of East 80th Street, was found stabbed to death on the sidewalk in the 8100 block of South Drexel Avenue at 2 a.m., according to the Cook County medical examiner's office.

Fatal bus crash investigated

DOLAN SPRINGS, Ariz. Investigators looking into a deadly tour bus crash on a highway near the Hoover Dam said Saturday that it may take up to a month to figure out why the vehicle overturned, killing seven passengers and injuring 10 others.

Arizona Department of Public Safety Sgt. Danny Hannigan said the National Transportation Safety Board was assisting in the probe of Friday's crash. The bus had been taken to Kingman where investigators will scour it over the next week, department spokesman Lt. James Warriner said.

Six people were pronounced dead at the scene and a seventh died at a hospital, said Cmdr. Dean Nyhart of the public safety department. The driver was among those in serious condition, he said.

The passengers were Chinese nationals who had flown from Shanghai to San Francisco and had most recently been in Las Vegas, according to DPS. They left Las Vegas early Friday for a trip to the Grand Canyon and were returning when the accident occurred Friday on Route 93.

The bus was traveling north on the four-lane highway—the main route between Phoenix and Las Vegas—when it veered right, overcorrected, crossed the median and rolled at least once before stopping, Nyhart said.

Warriner said the crash occurred on a “nice, clear day.”

Several people at a nearby diner rushed to the scene.

Sheila Larsen, who works at Rosie's Den, said she went outside after hearing a loud crash and screams and found people lying on the roadway, with paper and money strewn across the area.

She said the best she could do for the victims was take them blankets, towels and water. “The woman I was trying to comfort didn't speak English. I was trying to comfort her and she died,” Larsen said.

University Medical Center Spokesman Rick Plummer said the victims' injuries ranged from spinal and serious head injuries to bone fractures.

Google glitch warns of harmful Web sites

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. Computer users doing Google searches during a nearly one-hour period Saturday were greeted with disturbing but erroneous messages that every site turned up in the results might be harmful.

The company blamed the mistake on human error and apologized for any inconvenience caused to users and site owners whose pages were incorrectly labeled. The glitch occurred between 9:30 a.m. EST and 10:25 a.m. EST, Google said in an explanation on its company blog. Anyone who did a Google search during that time likely saw the message “This site may harm your computer” accompanying every search result, the company said.

Google said it routinely flags any search results with that message if the site is known to install malicious software, a practice aimed at protecting its users. Google said it maintains a list of suspicious sites based on criteria developed with stopbadware.org, a non-profit project.

The error happened when Google erroneously applied one of its periodic list updates in such a way that the warning applied to all URLs, the company said in a statement.

Grandma: Octuplets mom obsessed with having kids

8 WHITTIER, Calif. The woman who gave birth to octuplets this week conceived all 14 of her children through in vitro fertilization, is not married and has been obsessed with having children since she was a teenager, her mother said.

Angela Suleman told The Associated Press she was not supportive when her daughter, Nadya Suleman, decided to have more embryos implanted last year.

"It can't go on any longer," she said in a phone interview Friday. "She's got six children and no husband. I was brought up the traditional way. I firmly believe in marriage. But she didn't want to get married."

Nadya Suleman, 33, gave birth Monday in nearby Bellflower.

While her daughter recovers, Angela Suleman is taking care of the other six children, ages 2 through 7, at the family home.

She said she warned her daughter that when she gets home from the hospital, "I'm going to be gone."

Nadya Suleman wanted to have children since she was a teenager, "but luckily she couldn't," her mother said.

"Instead of becoming a kindergarten teacher or something, she started having them, but not the normal way," her mother said.

Little psychological research has been conducted on the reasons some mothers seem hooked on repeated pregnancies. David Diamond, a co-director for the Center for Reproductive Psychology in San Diego, said mothers can be drawn to repeat pregnancies for a number of reasons, with some finding the experience so satisfying they choose to become surrogates.

Pope Benedict XVI's decision to promote a pastor who called Hurricane Katrina divine punishment for sin in New Orleans was criticized by Austrian priests and church groups on Sunday.

4 Sick with bird flu

A 21-year-old woman in central China has been infected by the H5N1 strain of bird flu in the country's eighth reported case of the disease this year, the Health Ministry in Beijing said Sunday.

5 Carbon monoxide scare

Investigators in Philadelphia believe a gasoline-powered generator running a fan for inflatable playhouses produced carbon monoxide at a child's birthday party, sending 17 people to a hospital Saturday.

6 Prison riot

Law enforcement authorities in Pecos, Texas, say they are still trying to restore order Sunday at a privately run federal prison where a riot broke out Saturday. No injuries were immediately reported

7 More fires

Authorities said four arson fires reported Saturday "share a commonality" with other intentionally set blazes that have plagued Coatesville, Pa., but they wouldn't say if they were connected.

Jenny's changing her number

9 WEEHAWKEN, N.J. After five years fielding thousands of calls to one of rock 'n' roll's most celebrated phone numbers, DJ Spencer Potter is hanging up on Jenny.

Her seven digits are familiar to anyone who paid attention to pop music in the early 1980s: 867-5309, immortalized by the band Tommy Tutone.

Potter and his roommates requested the number on a lark for their home phone in northern New Jersey. They got it, along with about 30 to 40 calls a day.

The 28-year-old Potter says he's selling his business, A Blast Entertainment, and moving to New York. The business and the phone number are for sale on eBay, where the high bid was about $1,000 by Sunday morning.

Natural disaster

10 Spc. Michael Hagan with the Kentucky National Guard walks past storm damage as he checks on residents in Clinton, Ky. National Guard troops made their way into isolated Kentucky communities Sunday to check on residents walloped by a winter storm that Gov. Steve Beshear called the biggest natural disaster ever to hit the state. AP

STEELERS -27 CARDINALS -23

IT'S NOT IN THE CARDS

STEELERS ANSWER ARIZONA'S COMEBACK WITH ONE OF THEIR OWN TO WIN 6TH TITLE

Associated Press

TAMPA Their Steel Curtain shredded, Ben Roethlisberger and the Pittsburgh offense ended a Super Bowl of incredible swings with a final-minute touchdown for a historic victory.

Santonio Holmes made a brilliant 6-yard catch deep in the right corner of the end zone with 35 seconds remaining Sunday night, lifting the Steelers to a record-setting sixth Super Bowl win, 27-23 over the Arizona Cardinals.

"Scramble right, scramble left, find someone open," Roethlisberger said.

The Steelers (15-4), winning their second Super Bowl in four seasons, led 20-7 in the fourth quarter, only to see Kurt Warner and the Cardinals stage a remarkable rally to go in front 23-20 with 2:37 remaining.

Warner hit receiver Larry Fitzgerald in stride for a 64-yard touchdown with 2:37 left. Fitzgerald sped down the middle of the field, watching himself outrun the Steelers on the huge video screen.

Fitzgerald could only watch from the sideline as Roethlisberger engineered a 78-yard drive to win it in what resembled Heinz Field South. With waves of twirling Terrible Towels turning Raymond James Stadium into a black-and-gold tableau—

Steelers fans supporting their beloved team, the economy be damned—Pittsburgh's offense rescued the title.

"I knew it wasn't over," Warner said. "I tip my hat to the Steelers. They made some tremendous plays. ... They won this game. We didn't lose it."

Holmes was selected the game's MVP.

"Great players step up in big-time games to make plays," Holmes said. "I kind of lost a little composure, you know, but I knew our defense would give us a chance to make it back."

"Santonio is a guy who just loves to deliver," Steelers coach Mike Tomlin said.

The stunning swings overshadowed Pittsburgh linebacker James Harrison's record 100-yard interception return for a touchdown to end the first half. That looked like the signature play until the final quarter.

Big Ben and Holmes struck the last blow, and when Warner fumbled in the final seconds, the Cardinals' dream of winning their first NFL crown since 1947 were gone.

"I'm disappointed for our team," said Cardinals coach Ken Whisenhunt. "This is a group of men that I'm very proud of. They played very hard in circumstances where nobody believed in them."

SCOTT-O-METER

RedEye's Scott Kleinberg is a big Steelers fan, but try not to hold that against him. As he watched Sunday's game at work, we gauged his reactions to some of the key moments. Here's what we found.

1ST QUARTER

BIG BEN SCORES!!
... Ahhh ... Ahhhh ...
C'mon Wisenfunk ... Put your freakin' red flag back in your pocket and step back.

Jeff Reed, I love your feet. 3-0 Steelers.

Throw the ball already, Roethlisberger! What are you waiting for, halftime?

2ND QUARTER

I think John Madden has said the word "penetration" at least 20 times today. It's making me really uncomfortable.

e*trade baby trader commercial AWESOME. Taaake ... these broken wings ... and learn to fly again ...

BEAR'S-EYE VIEW

Unless you've been living under a rock or in your mom's basement (we're looking at you, Bag Boy), you've heard that the Cardinals used to be based in Chicago. The Cards' last season in the Windy City was 50 years ago, but that shouldn't stop Bears fans from claiming them (after all, the Bears aren't going to be in the Super Bowl anytime soon). But, how do they measure up to the Bears? Consider the following. REDEYE

THAT WAS SOOOO BEARS

» Kurt Warner does his best Rex Grossman imitation and muffs the handoff to Edgerrin James on the Cardinals' first drive.

» First pass of the game is a 38-yard completion for the Steelers. Are the Cards using the Bears' Cover-2 defense?

» The Cards didn't get their second first down until a couple minutes into the second quarter. That's actually sooner than the Bears, but still ...

» On a key play, a receiver drops a pass. And his name wasn't Devin Hester.

» In the end, the defense lets them down, and that is sooooo Bears.

THAT WAS SOOOO NOT BEARS

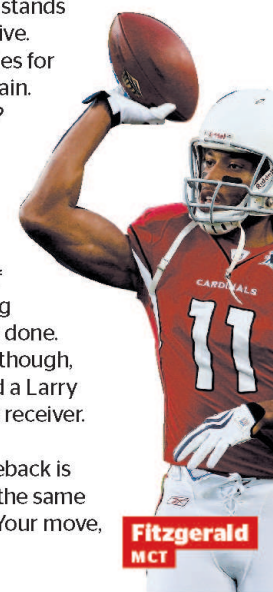

» The Cards make a goal-line stand and hold the Steelers to a field goal in the opening drive of the game. Taking notes, Lovie?

» A touchdown pass to the tight end? Yes, Chicago, it can be done.

» Two goal-line stands on the same drive. Pittsburgh settles for a field goal—again. Sense a theme?

» A rally starts with—what?—a drive powered by and finished off with the passing game. It can be done. You need a QB though, Mr. Angelo. And a Larry Fitzgerald-type receiver.

» And the comeback is complete with the same Mr. Fitzgerald. Your move, Bears.

3RD QUARTER

YESSSSSSSSSSSS!!! 100-yard interception return. WOW!! Bring on Springsteen.

Here we go again ... Another play, another reversal by the refs. Make up your mind!!

YES! GO! GET IN THERE! DOH! Co-worker says my outbursts after plays crack him up. And my work here is done.

Roethlisberger is scaring the heck out of me today. Little wild with the arm. But it's OK. We good.

4TH QUARTER

It's official. I am freaking out. I can barely think.

Santonio Holmes ... I love you.

STEELERS WIN!! STEELERS WIN!! I think I lost 10 pounds during that game, but WOW! I'm ... I'm ... WOW!

XLIII

'Divine Interception,' anyone?

1 When the Cardinals took the lead, we were ready to forget James Harrison's incredible 100-yard interception return like it was Devin Hester's game-opening kickoff return from Super Bowl XLI. But the Steelers won, so we're wondering: What will the collective football nation nickname the play? Here's a vote for "Divine Interception."

GETTY IMAGES

The naked truth

6 Were the 3-D commercials cool? A tired gimmick? Meh, call us party poopers, but we'll spend the week cracking up our friends with lines from the talking flowers commercial. "No one wants to see you naked." Comedy gold! Wait, what was that ad for?

Miracle before Jennifer Hudson

7 The crew of the US Airways flight that made an emergency landing in the Hudson River last month drew a greater ovation from the crowd than Faith Hill received for her rendition of "America the Beautiful." On the patriotism scale, that seems about right.

We want Tidwell!

8 Cuba Gooding Jr., who played overconfident Arizona receiver Rod Tidwell in "Jerry Maguire," was in the house for Super Bowl XLIII. The Cardinals could have used a playmaker like Tidwell in the first half—and you know his celebratory breakdance would have fired up the crowd.

Super duper PepsiSuper

9 Well, at least "Saturday Night Live" didn't turn a Rod Blagojevich skit into a commercial.

Booking a room in D.C.

10 After the game, Steelers owner Dan Rooney thanked President Obama for supporting his team. Look, Rooney, we all want to spend a night in the White House's Lincoln Bedroom. Most of us are just a little more subtle.

SUPER MOMENTS

Sunday's Super Bowl coverage provided no shortage of big moments, whether it be a key play or clever commercial. Here are the 10 that got RedEye's attention.

NBC's bromance

2 We're flagging the Peacock Network, which trotted out no fewer than 13 broadcasters during the day's coverage, for too many men on the field. We've seen "30 Rock," NBC. We know you have women!

Previews

3 After getting a first look at a number of movies, we're fired up about "Star Trek," "Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen" and "Land of the Lost." Sorry, Disney, you gotta come stronger than "Up" and "Race to Witch Mountain" if you want to impress on Super Bowl Sunday.

Fight! Fight! Fight!

4 What was with all the pushing and shoving after plays? Save it for off-season rumbles outside Las Vegas strip clubs, fellas. Fighting is an accepted part of hockey, but even goons know better than to throw a punch in a big game and take a penalty.

Da first ad

5 Holla, Chicago! An office worker was sent crashing through the window of his building with cartoonish force in the game's first commercial. As RedEye reported last week, the Bud Light ad was the brainchild of Brant Herzer and Tyler Campbell (left) of the DDB Chicago agency.

1 Any last pregame Super Bowl thoughts?

Tax prep commercials cannot be cool, not even during the Super Bowl.

The Cardinals? Seriously?

PLEASE. GOD. MAKE. THE PREGAME. END.

I really hope there isn't another wardrobe malfunction. We already know "who's the Boss."

Party at the Sox Cave; there goes the whole "secret location" thing.

2 How did Steelers fan Scott spend his Sunday?

Let's say applying black-and-gold body paint to certain parts was a lot harder than I imagined.

In the Tribune gym asking the guys if they wanted to get a closer look at his terrible towel.

Trying to get Jimmy to put on a Terry Bradshaw jersey and call him "sport."

Eating pizza, chili, hot dogs, ribs. Just like a normal Sunday for Jessica Simpson.

Daydreaming he was the kid in that classic Mean Joe Greene Coke commercial.

3 Imagine what White Sox players thought of Soxman at the SoxFest.

They thought about how calm and tame Ozzie is compared to him.

Strange dude, but Ozzie's weirder.

Nerds shouldn't let nerds drink and dress. I KID, SOXMAN! I KID!

At least that guy looks better in his uniform than Bartolo Colon looks in his.

I'm not a chick magnet, and no, the costume's not for sale, guys!

4 If the Bulls can win three in a row, then ...

... I can win the lottery three nights in a row.

... we can put a man on the moon. Please let it be Joakim Noah.

... I might start caring about the team again. Then again ... nah.

... Drew Peterson can find another chick to shack up with him.

... we should realize how far the term "three-peat" has dropped since the Jordan era.

5 At this rate, Northwestern might make the NCAA Tournament. What do you think of that?

I think this is why Leo isn't on this panel. He fainted after he heard the news.

It would be awesome. Chicago's place in college hoops is pathetic.

You realize we're talking Northwestern here. I sense those Cats choking on a BIG hairball soon.

That's premature brackulation! These Cats only need to know three letters: N-I-T. Sorry, Conan.

Madness I tell you, March Madness!

HOMETOWN HITS

ILLINOIS 62, IOWA 54

Mike Tisdale scored 18 points and No.

19 Illinois rebounded from its worst offensive showing in more than two decades by hanging on to beat Iowa 62-54 on Sunday. Held to their lowest point total in 24 years in a 59-36 loss at Minnesota on Thursday, the Fighting Illini barely beat the Big Ten's 10th place team.

Sunday's question and answer session at SoxFest started on a humorous note, as manager Ozzie Guillen deadpanned that he and third base coach Jeff Cox weren't getting along. "I've had four third base coaches in five years," Guillen said. Guillen later hinted that 2008 No. 1 pick Gordon Beckham might be destined for a position change. "Alexei Ramirez is going to be my shortstop for a while," Guillen said.

Olympic star Phelps admits using bong

Olympic great Michael Phelps acknowledged "regrettable" behavior and "bad judgment" after a photo in a British newspaper Sunday showed him inhaling from a marijuana pipe.

In a statement released to The Associated Press, the swimmer who won eight gold medals at the Beijing Games did not dispute the authenticity of the picture published by the tabloid News of the World.

"I engaged in behavior which was regrettable and demonstrated bad judgment," Phelps said. "I'm 23 years old and despite the successes I've had in the pool, I acted in a youthful and inappropriate way, not in a manner people have come to expect from me. For this, I am sorry. I promise my fans and the public it will not happen again."

News of the World said the picture was taken during a November house party while Phelps was visiting the University of South Carolina.

AUSTRALIAN OPEN

Nadal, Williams take titles

Rafael Nadal was bestowed a new title in his home country: King of Australia. Nadal beat Roger Federer in five riveting sets Sunday to become the first Spaniard to win the Australian Open. On the women's side, Serena Williams returned to No. 1 in the world rankings for the third time in her career following her Australian Open win.

Survival guide

Put the freeze on winter blues with these hot events and openings

By Rebecca Palmore

Another month down, two more to go before spring fever takes hold of your wind-whipped, restless bod. Until then, get busy with our calendar of can't-miss events. Before you know it, you'll be marching toward a warmer future.

| | | | | | | |
| | Free! Groundhog Day! Crawl out of bed for a free alfresco lunch at South Water Kitchen (225 N. Wabash Ave.). BYO furry mittens; R.S.V.P. required. | Sip your supper at Risque Cafe (3419 N. Clark St.), hosting a four-course dinner of bourbon-laced fare with pairings from Sierra Nevada. | Free! Give yourself another chance to make good on your New Year's resolution with free fitness classes at 158 field houses in Chicago parks, continuing through Monday. Locations and classes: chicagoparkdistrict.com. | Toast Honest Abe's 200th birthday (Feb. 12) a week early with a Lincoln Square dinner crawl and shopping event at more than 20 neighborhood spots, starting at Bad Dog Tavern (4535 N. Lincoln Ave.). | Bid on romantic date packages designed by local singles at Starlight Starbright Children's Foundation's 18th Annual Dream Date Auction at Park West (322 W. Armitage Ave.). | Brace yourself for the cold—and more—at the Lakeview Polar Bear Club's Eighth Annual Celebration of Shrinkage benefit at Oak Street Beach (1000 N. Lake Shore Drive). |
| Watch music industry stars purr and pout at a Grammy Awards viewing party at Kit Kat Lounge (3700 N. Halsted St.). | NPR quiz whiz Peter Sagal (below) hosts No Love for Love, a night of humorous and romantic readings and stories at Victory Gardens Biograph Theater (2433 N. Lincoln Ave.). | Toast lean dogs at Fat Cat (4840 N. Broadway) during a viewing party of the Westminster Kennel Club Dog Show to benefit local literacy program Sit, Stay, Read. | Snag "bleepin' golden" tickets to the new spoof "Rod Blagojevich Superstar!" at The Second City e.t.c. (1608 N. Wells St.), where a fictional Blago takes on '70s-era rock opera roles from "Jesus Christ Superstar" and more. | Free! R.S.V.P. now for the Chocolate and Yoga Valentine's Progressive, which includes a 40-minute yoga class at Yoga Now Gold Coast, (742 N. LaSalle Drive) and ends with wine and vegan truffles at Greenheart, 746 N. LaSalle Drive. | Get your flick fix: Romantic comedy "Confessions of a Shopaholic" and horror remake "Friday the 13th" open today. See metromix.com for screening times and locations. | Valentine's Day! See metromix.com for creative ways to toast your sweetie—or drown your sorrows—at The Bristol (2152 N. Damen Ave.), Old Town Pub (1339 N. Wells St.) and more. |
| Free! Browse all things bridal and sample food at a wedding showcase at Hub 51 (51 W. Hubbard St.). Overcome with emotion? An ordained minister is on hand to perform on-the-spot wedding ceremonies. | Free! Muntu Dance Theatre of Chicago performs at Macy's on State Street (111 N. State St.) as part of its celebration of Black History Month. | Take a winter beer education class at Brasserie Jo (59 W. Hubbard St.) for just $1. Includes sips and bites. | Get half-price admission ($10) to the new "Becoming Edvard Munch" exhibit at the Art Institute of Chicago (111 S. Michigan Ave.). The admission discount continues through Feb. 28. | Get a double dose of Portland rock as Blitzen Trapper joins Alela Diane at Empty Bottle (1035 N. Western Ave.). | Chicago Restaurant Week kicks off today! Three-course lunch ($22) and dinner ($32) menus highlight more than 130 local eateries through Feb. 27, including Farmerie 58 (58 E. Ontario St.), Japonais (600 W. Chicago Ave.) and others. | Collect beads from nine Wrigleyville bars during the first-ever Mardi Gras Bead Crawl, a booze-filled hop from the TBOX crew, kicking off at Murphy's Bleachers (3655 N. Dear John

Hungry Brain, 2319 W. Belmont Ave.

Ever been dumped by a chicken? News flash: You're not alone. See evidence of cowardly breakups at "Letters/X 6," GroundUp Theatre's sixth annual cabaret of songs and monologues based on actual breakup letters, e-mails and text messages, selected from more than 100 submissions. Monday's opening performance includes beer and wine with an optional $15 donation. 8 p.m. Through March 7. Free-$15. 773-386-2649.

Good as gold

The Building Stage, 412 N. Carpenter St.

Walkabout Theater Company and Collaboraction team up for an alternative take on musical theater with a new dark comedy that explores the music and experiences of Jon Langford, "Goldbrick." With a script by local playwright Loren Crawford, video interludes and Jon Langford's music, the show explores immigration through the travels of a Welshman who comes to America. 8 p.m. preview. Through March 1. $15; $27.50 for regular run. 312-226-9633.

Just fondue it

Geja's Cafe, 340 W. Armitage Ave. 773-281-9101.

Take a double dip into history and food at Do You Fondue?, a dinner and presentation on the history of Geja's and Old Town led by Elizabeth Garibay of the Chicago History Museum and others. Dinner features four courses with Lynfred Winery pairings. 6:30 p.m. $65-$70. Register online: chicagohistory.org

Table of contents

La Madia, 59 W. Grand Ave. 312-329-0400.

Dining gets another educational twist at Chef's Table, where chef-owner Jonathan Fox demonstrates how to prepare a multicourse menu with wine pairings, such as cream of wild mushroom soup with 2004 Tamellini Soave and steak Florentine with Caldora sangiovese while you watch—and eat each course—from a counter overlooking the kitchen. 7 p.m. $35. Reservations required.

Just in valen-time

Just Grapes, 560 W. Washington Blvd. Suite 100. 312-627-9463.

Looking to host a romantic dinner but short on time and cash? Stock up at the wine shop's Valentine's Day on a Budget tasting and sample 25 wines that cost less than $25 each and carryout dishes from Entrees By You, priced $26.95-$29.85 with sides and breads. Pairings include lobster ravioli in a vodka cream sauce with De Bortoli chardonnay. 5:30 p.m. $35. Reservations recommended.

FOR REDEYE

Riot Inside is driven by a passion to stand out from the crowd.

"It was just an idea of trying to make a band that was a little different," said drummer John Castro. "We all had our influences but we wanted something unique."

One of those unique factors is the group's collaborative songwriting process, he said.

"One of our guitar players is actually a music student and he's very into composition techniques," he said. "When you place those things in the framework of 'rock music,' I think it creates something interesting and unique."

Another element that Castro feels helps set Riot Inside apart is their "infectious" live show.

"We're about playing straight-ahead rock music. It's a show, not a gimmick."

MICHAEL SCHMITT IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

I want two bedrooms,
 a sun room with french doors & stain-resistant carpeting.

You want
 what you want

And the place to get it is apartments.com. Create your own wish list by neighborhood, price range and amenities. And in just moments, you'll be looking at photos, floor-plans and taking virtual tours of apartments that fit your requirements.

We have millions of listings across all 50 states, including classifieds from the newspaper - all updated daily. So be choosy. Carpet, hardwood floors, wall-to-wall linoleum, whatever.

Come to Apartments.com
 and get what you want

DON'T KNOW ABOUT THIS...

A surfer once sued another surfer for "stealing his wave."
 The case was thrown out because the court was unable to put a price on "pain and suffering" endured by the surfer watching someone else ride
 "his" wave.

Attack of the 3rd dimension

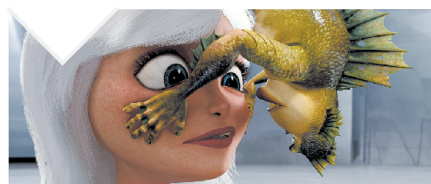

If you watched Sunday's Super Bowl, you probably saw the 3-D commercial for the upcoming film "Monsters vs. Aliens." That is, if you bothered to pick up a pair of 3-D glasses. NBC is following up Sunday's 3-D moment with Monday's episode of "Chuck" called "Chuck Versus the Third Dimension." You'll be able to see a lot of 3-D work in 2009. According to reports, Hollywood will be launching about 30 more 3-D films in the coming year. REDEYE, DETROIT NEWS

COMING IN 3-D

- » "My Bloody Valentine 3-D" In theaters now
- » "Coraline" Friday

- » "Under the Sea 3D" Feb. 11
- » "The Jonas Brothers: The 3D Concert Experience" Feb. 27
- » "Monsters vs. Aliens" March 27

- » "Up" May 29
 - » "Ice Age: Dawn of the Dinosaurs" July 1
 - » "G-Force" July 24
 - » "Final Destination: Death Trip 3D" Aug. 21
 - » "Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs" Sept. 24
 - » "Toy Story" Oct. 2
 - » "Horrorween 3D" Oct. 30
 - » "Disney's A Christmas Carol" Nov. 6
 - » "Planet 51" Nov. 20
 - » "Avatar" Dec. 18
- SOURCE: MARKETSAW-3D

3-D CLASSICS

- » "Spooks" (1953): The Three Stooges in three dumb dimensions!
- » "House of Wax" (1953): Vincent Price, spookier than ever.
- » "Dial M for Murder" (1954): Alfred Hitchcock used judicious effects in this mystery.
- » "Friday the 13th Part III" (1982): Eye-popping. Literally.
- » "Beowulf" (2007): The future is now.

Chuck flies off screen

NBC follows up Sunday's Super Bowl 3-D experiment with "Chuck Versus the Third Dimension."

As Chuck's soon-to-be brother-in-law, Devon, would say: Awesome.

The episode's excellence has little to do with the 3-D effects. In fact, I'm not convinced that Intel's Tru3D technology, which was used to film "Chuck" and the "Monsters vs. Aliens" movie, works as well on TV as in movie theaters.

There are several nice 3-D tricks—a lingerie-clad Sarah, a doughnut about to be eaten by Big Mike, extra special flashes from Chuck, a knife being thrown. But I wear glasses, and the 3-D specs worked best without them, so I had to get close to the screen to really see the effects. (The effects popped more when I watched on my computer.)

The episode is marvelous in 2-D, so don't fret if you don't have 3-D glasses.

And yes, you did read "lingerie-clad Sarah" above

(Yvonne Strahovski). The episode opens with the sexy spy's jaw-dropping seduction of Chuck (Zachary Levi), who still is reeling after witnessing Sarah kill an unarmed Fulcrum agent in "Chuck Versus Santa Claus."

Dominic Monaghan gives a bravura performance as boozy rock star Tyler Martin, the target of a group of killers. Chuck is assigned to baby-sit Tyler, who takes our nerdy hero on a bender that nearly gets both of them killed.

"That's not such a great idea," Chuck warns Tyler.

"All the best nights of my life have begun with that sentence," Tyler says.

The secondary plot offers has even greater laughs involving ladies panties, competitive eating, urinal cakes and a contest between ex-con Jimmy Buttermen (guest star Jerome Bettis), Lester and Jeff to be Morgan's plus-one going backstage at Tyler's concert. The Buy More scenes prove that Josh Gomez, Scott Krinsky and Vik Sahay are the show's weapons of mass hilarity.

SUPER BOWL XLIII: THE ENTERTAINERS

Bruuuuce!

Seemingly more concerned with playing to the crowd than playing his songs, Bruce Springsteen zipped through a short but raucous set complete with fireworks and a fake football referee.

Springsteen and his E Street Band opened with "Tenth Avenue Freeze-Out," then without pause ripped through "Born To Run" and "Working on a Dream," before winding up the set with "Glory Days."

Before the big game kicked off, NBC host Bob Costas asked Springsteen why he chose to play the Super Bowl after turning down past invites. "I have an album to promote, dummy," he said. "It's not rocket science."

At the onset of his show Springsteen literally bent over backward for his audience. At another point, an exuberant power slide led him straight into a camera, um, crotch-first. Near the end of the set, during "Glory Days," a "referee" threw a flag at Springsteen for playing over time.

It was a spectacle, to be sure.

Gleaming return

Jennifer Hudson doesn't always get the material her prodigious voice deserves. But that wasn't the case Sunday to open the Super Bowl as she took on the national anthem, a demanding warhorse that requires superior vocal chops to successfully navigate.

It was the 27-year-old Chicago native's first public performance since the slayings of her mother, brother and nephew in their Englewood home Oct. 24.

Teetering on high heels and with a sober expression, she began and ended the performance with an audible sigh. In between, she was focused and in terrific voice. She began deliberately, then swung low to bring a chilling resonance to the word "gleaming."

Though she stretched a few notes, she didn't oversell the song or her voice. She reveled in its power. The final "home of the brave" was a howitzer into the heavens.

Hudson announced she was back in dramatic fashion. Her heart has surely been broken by recent events, but her voice remains a rare instrument. And if anything, the tragedies in her life gave this performance an emotional lift that couldn't be denied. GREG KOT, TRIBUNE

'TOUCHDOWN!'

Jennifer Hudson's flawless performance of the national anthem clocked in at 2 minutes, 13 seconds, according to The Associated Press.

When she returned to her dressing room, she anxiously asked pre-game show producer Rickey Minor "How did I do?"

"I told her 'Touchdown!'" Minor said.

Although entertainers can perform live, Minor insisted that Hudson and Faith Hill, who sang "America the Beautiful" before the national anthem, use the tracks the NFL requires them to submit a week before the game.

"That's the right way to do it," Minor said. "There's too many variables to go live." AP Sexy can I?

Sexiness is one spell Emma Watson can't seem to understand.

"I find the whole concept of being 'sexy' embarrassing and confusing. ... I know everyone wants a picture of me in a miniskirt. But that's not me," the 18-year-old star of the "Harry Potter" franchise told London's Daily Mail. "I feel uncomfortable. I'd never go out in a miniskirt."

"Personally, I don't actually think it's even that sexy. What's sexy about saying, 'I'm here with my boobs out and a short skirt—have a look at everything I've got?'"

We're sure more than a few boys would be willing to explain that to you, Emma—trust us.
